Family Success in Adams County

Are you interested in learning:

- To communicate better with your child?
- To build a stronger relationship with your child?
- To take better care of yourself as a parent?

Then you may want to participate in this free study called Family Success in Adams County. As part of the study, you will be asked to take part in one or more educational programs that will address topics like the ones above, complete up to two surveys and meet with a family development counselor twice a year for a two year period.

Participation does not guarantee personal success, but will provide valuable skills and tools to use at home or in life situations.

Colorado State University Extension, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Adams County cooperating. Extension programs are available to all without discrimination. Funding for this project provided by the United States Department of Health and Human Services Administration for Children and Families Grant # 90FE0028.
